

YESTERDAYS.

—Minneapolis Journal.

THE NEW PREACHER'S SON.

THE SPINNER.

The spinner twisted her slender thread As she sat, and spun.
"The earth and the heavens are mine," She said,
"And the moon and the sun;
Into my web the sunlight goes,
And the breath of May,
And the crimson life of the new-blown rose.
That was born to-day."

The spinner sang in the hush of noon,
And her song was low;
"Ah, morning, you pass away too soon,
You are swift to go.
My heart overflows like a brimming cup With its hopes and fears.
Love, come and drink the sweetness up Ere it turns to tears."

The spinner looked at the falling sun.
"Is it time to rest?
My hands are weary, my work is done,
I have wrought my best, I have spun and woven with patient eyes
And with fingers fleet.
Lo! where the toil of a lifetime lies In a winding sheet!"
—Mary Alice de Vere.

Getting a Start

Josephine's brother was in the dumps and Josephine knew why.
Two months before she might not have been so discerning, but since that time she had been seeing things by the light of her own engagement solitaire—a most revealing flash.
"Cliff," she said, considerably, "are you going to call on me tonight?" Clifford Roland snipped his moustache round his neck and buttoned his overcoat.

"Because," his sister pursued, "those violets I used on the table for the luncheon I gave this noon are perfectly good and you're welcome to them." He looked at her, considering.
"Did they come in a box?" he asked.
"No, just tissue paper. I bought them at the station, but they're the best you ever saw, for that kind. And I have a box—a good new one. Wait a minute."

She darted out of the room and came back presently holding aloft a purple box bearing the name of an exclusive florist.

"Here you are! This is the box Percy's last violets came in. I scolded him at the time for being so extravagant, but now I'm glad. And look inside! Here's the very wrapping paper and card it was tied with, all saved!
I was just as sentimental as that. And here's even the envelope Percy's card was in, with the florist's name printed on the back—all complete!"

"Say," said Cliff, beginning to look interested. "I wonder—"

"Of course you will! I have purple gauze ribbon upstairs and a purple-headed pin and everything."

Cliff loosened three buttons of his overcoat. "Doodle," he said, "you're a peach, but it won't do any good. Her father's too rich. I wish she didn't have a cent!"

"Now, see here," Doodle informed him in the mature manner of a young person who has been engaged for sixty days. "Millionaires, if they're worth getting at all, have hearts, just like other girls."

"You take my word," she went on sagely, after a flying trip upstairs.
As she spoke she stripped the dining table of violets and began to prepare for the box. "You can go in and win—same as Percy did—if you'll just brace up. He was every bit as scared as you are, but he never showed it.
If a girl's going to like you at all, she'll like a masterful way. Percy brought me violets from this very flor-ist's the night he proposed, and it's a good start."

She flourished the bunch of violets—their stems wrapped in purple tinfoil and adorned with a huge purple bow.

"Get out a card," she commanded,
"and put it into this envelope. No, Percy's card hasn't been left in it.
That's put away with my treasures."

Dear old Percy! He will go on sending me flowers, no matter what I say.
I tell him we ought to save from now on for household furnishings; so every time he brings me violets or roses or anything, he says: "Here's another butter-spreader," or "Here's a teapot," or some such thing. Isn't he clever?"
"He was clever to get you," Cliff muttered, which is a brother's way of saying thank you. Then he took his box and started out, visibly cheered.

In the home of the "millionaire," a half hour later young Roland sat alone, pondering his sister's advice.
The violets had been sent up to the adored one, who had not yet appeared.
"Good evening, Mr. Roland," a sweet voice broke in. "You were so kind to bring me the violets."

He rose, to meet a puzzled, inquiring glance in the blue eyes. She was wearing the violets, but something was wrong.

"You were so kind," she repeated in an odd tone, just touched with frost, "but why—that is, can you explain—this?"

She held out a slip of thin paper, folded once. Young Roland opened it.
"Dear girl," was written in Percy's handwriting. "Here's another salt cellar. I love you."

Drops of perspiration stood out on young Roland's forehead. He recognized the paper as a leaf from a small notebook that Percy was always whispling out of his pocket. Confound him!
He had whipped it out once too often.
That had been in the envelope, too, and Doodle had missed finding it when she took out the card.

He pretended to be puzzling over the paper. In reality he was trying to decide what to do. For a fellow of his sort there was no course but the roller towel.

"CAN YOU EXPLAIN THIS?"

truth. The only question was how to begin.

Whipping out a notebook and pencil in successful Percy's own style, he rested the obnoxious slip of paper on the book and drew a heavy line through the words, "Here's another salt cellar." Then he handed it back to the girl.

"What much of it is for you, anyway," he said in a tone masterful enough to suit Doodle herself. "Sit down here and I'll tell you about the rest."

It was late that night when young Roland got home, but a sympathetic sister was waiting to let him in.

"Did it work?" she asked, solicitously. "It worked," he answered with a grin.—Chicago Daily News.

ROLLER TOWEL TO GO.

Board of Health Calls It More Deadly than Public Drinking Cup.

All our favorite gods and sacred traditions fall one by one before the onslaught of reform. So closely have the clippers of political zealots shorn us of those personal privileges enjoyed by our sires that the modern man stumbles in his melancholy pathway to the grave, beset on all sides by proscriptions, regulations and rules of conduct, and feels himself lucky if he dies out of jail. In Kansas, beautiful proud, prosperous and far-famed Kansas, the reformers have found their paradise. Topeka is the latter-day Delphi and the oracle of reform speaks in many tongues.

The latest reformatory utterance is a condemnation of the roller towel, according to the Kansas City Journal. It has been officially declared that the roller towel is even more dangerous than short skirts, drinking cups and cracked dishes. Per square foot the roller towel contains a greater number and variety of germs than are to be found anywhere else in the Sunflower State, and for the protection of society the time-honored rotating rag must go.

Perhaps this is all for the best, yet it is permissible to pause and sigh at the passing of the old roller towel. It has served long and well and millions of our most respected citizens have left their sooty imprints upon its inviting folds.

Its rattle has been soothing music to spattering patrons of public washrooms and in spite of the progressive cycle of its layer upon layer of discolorations it possessed a simple dignity that could not be defied. Even when limp and discredited, it festooned in un-liveliness from its scaffold, the roller towel was not without virtue. Always some one came to toy gingerly with its edges in the hope of finding one small area less dirty than the rest.

Bowing to the decree which banishes the roller towel from sight, we yet remember with something like affection the long years of intimate association with it in which it never failed. It has represented human democracy and comradeship. It was the bond that united the high and the low and it touched all mankind with a welcome if humid salute. The arrogant foes wore the roller towel in the days of their affluence, but it remained faithful and its very form typified unchanging purposes.

Legions of men and women have vainly sought the end of the roller towel. It has remained for the Kansas State Board of Health to lay a val-dial hand upon this ancient institution and tear it from its honored place behind the door.

TALE OF A LOST UMBRELLA.

Two People Who Failed to See Humor in the Situation.

It was a train coming through Southern Wisconsin. On board was one of those impromptu comedy crowds from the tall grass that hadn't any idea it was funny. One woman suddenly descended on her husband with the thrilling inquiry:

"Where is that umbrella of mine?"

"I dunno," growled the husband.

"Well, you had it last."

"You did, too, and you've got to get busy finding it. I bet it's up forced there where we was a-settin' before we come back here."

More growls from the husband, who was sleepy.

"You got them me hunt it, anyway."

She took him and went forward, peering under the seats. All up and down the aisle they went, searching vainly. The more uncomfortable the stopping made her the madder and worse excited the woman got and the worse her husband growled.

Finally she began poking under the seats to see if she could touch the umbrella in some recess beyond her vision.

A girl with a blue feather in her hat, who had been timidly watching the performance and showing a blushing tendency to interrupt, could contain herself no longer.

"What's that you're poking under the seat with—Isn't that the lost umbrella?" she asked.

The woman straightened up, gave one look at the tightly grasped instrument, and snapped out: "Yes, it is."

She said it just as if it had been the fault of the girl with the blue feather in her hat.

An impressive Apronament.

"Time is money," said the ready-made philosopher. "Every minute is precious."

"Yes," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "I went out after luncheon to the links and played nearly a million dollars' worth of golf. And yet people say I am not liberal."—Washington Star.

A woman's idea of a good doctor is one who has a tender voice, and sympathetic eyes.

Methods are plentiful when it comes to killing time.

ANTEPRIMARY GOSSIP.

San Francisco.—The political camps of the State, receiving their arms and ammunition from this city, are bristling with activity. By the mere force of numbers the Republicans are necessarily in the limelight. This is indicated by the progress of registration in San Francisco, where six Republicans to one Democrat are enrolling themselves for the fray. It is significant also that the Laborites, for the purposes of the State campaign at least, are deserting their colors for the Republican standard. The relation between the Republicans and the Laborites in the San Francisco registration is as ten to one.

The managers of Alden Anderson sought at first to create the impression that the heavy Laborite vote, which is being disguised as Republican, would be cast for the Solano man. The repudiation of Anderson by the Anti-Asiatic League has, however, thrown a different light on the situation. Curry's consistent attitude toward capital and labor is standing him now in good stead. His authorship of the measure to enforce arbitration in labor disputes has won him enthusiastic friends on both sides and he has received unqualified pledges of support. The fact is interesting that every labor union in Sacramento has voted itself heartily in his endorsement. It is doubly interesting perhaps that hundreds of business men of San Francisco, representing many thousands of votes, have enrolled themselves as active workers in the Curry campaign.

Politicians of all shades of opinion concede now that there are only three serious contenders for the Republican nomination for Governor. Anderson, Johnson and Curry are the rivals. Stanton is considered to be out of the running, as his candidacy is essentially sectional and detrimental politically, so the leaders insist, to the southern part of the State. The counties south of the Tehachapi are too vitally concerned to secure a United States Senator, favorable representatives on the railroad commission and the Board of Equalization and another place on the Supreme Bench to insist upon a Governor as well.

Curry occupies a unique position in the great struggle. He opened his canvass with the announcement that he is neither a factional nor a sectional candidate. He places his claims for support upon the broad basis of Republicanism and fitness for the office he seeks. His appeal is to the general body of Republicans and his warrant is his record as a State political officer who possesses an intimate knowledge of the necessities of every public institution in California. Professional as well as personal friends have united in his behalf and their ranks have been reinforced by thousands who have placed their stamp of approval upon his public career.

Some notion of the extent of this organization may be had from the fact that more than 30,000 Republican voters of California have signed themselves as members of the Curry Central Organization. Each of these men will cast his vote for Curry at the primary election. Each has a voice and an active participation in the canvass and each is a proselyter for more votes.

Within the last week two events of more than passing importance have agitated the political pool. A mass meeting, advertised to take place in Oakland to open the Johnson campaign, has been indefinitely postponed.
Mayor Mott of Oakland had promised to preside at the meeting, but at the last moment he declined to do so on the ground that the Lincoln-Roosevelt League is dealing unfairly with his brother who is an aspirant for a county office. The second incident is of equal importance. It is nothing less than the official announcement that Colonel Forbes of Marysville, one of the big leaders of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League in California, will leave at once for Europe and will remain away until after the election in November.

This retirement of Forbes from active personal participation in the Johnson campaign has spread consternation in certain quarters and satisfaction in others. No one appears able to explain the reasons of Forbes for his unexpected action. Without his personal supervision his newspaper will not exercise the same political influence which it now enjoys.

Ready for Market.

Two Canadians were boasting.
"Where I come from," said the first, "we have a salmon river that rises in some boiling springs. As the salmon climb up the river they gradually get acclimated to the heat of the water and don't mind it. In fact, when we fish in the highest reaches of the stream we catch our salmon ready boiled."

"I don't doubt that," said the second Canadian calmly. "Down my way there's a curious salmon river, too. It rises in some tin mines. As the fish work up they meet the suspended ore in gradually increasing quantities.
They get quite mineralized if they keep on upstream, so that if we fish at the head of the river we catch our salmon ready tinned, and all we have to do is to pack and ship them to market."

If you have any news, arrival or departure of friends, society or industrial news, coming events, building notes and gossip beneficial to the city, send same to the TERMINAL as early as possible with your signature. Your name is an indication of good faith. Editors who interest our readers in their services, are offered space for church directory. When directory is not revised, it is put in the "hell" box with other dead matter. The neglect of the divine to change copy occasionally explains the absence of the church directory for our readers.

NOTICE—No contract with this paper authorized through outside parties; no agents are employed. It is always better to call to see what you want, or write a letter. Subscribers who may fail to receive their paper are requested to notify this office at once.

On account of the approaching holiday season it might be well to have the calendar revised to make the week a day or two longer.

Public questions do not any longer agitate the public mind; the lion lays down with lamb which is not in any grave danger.

Richmond is growing as rapidly as industrial conditions will permit. The proposed U. S. government channel through our city from San Pablo to San Francisco bay, our visitors say is an economical measure.

More than $600 a week goes out of Richmond for laundry work and about $190 per week of printing and about $10,000 a week of general merchandise trade goes to San Francisco and Oakland and $8,000 a week go to eastern mail order large eastern stores, or about $104,000 monthly, are the roughly estimated trade losses as tabulated by a member of Richmond Board of Trade. This loss would pay for one-sixth the municipal tunnel and wharf and would pay several hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of debts. Just think it over.

State News.

MANUAL TRAINING MOVEMENT GROWING

Cal. State News Bureau, Sacramento, April 8.—According to reports of proposed manual training courses the coming year, received by State Superintendent Hyatt, manual training is gaining in popularity and attention in the various counties of the state. Approximately forty schools will add this subject to their curricula during the forthcoming school year.

PIPE LINE CO. INCORPORATES FOR $25,000,000.

Cal. State News Bureau, Sacramento, April 8.—The California-Arizona Pipe Line Company, with headquarters in Bakersfield, filed incorporation papers with the Secretary of State C. F. Curry, with a capitalization of $25,000,000. The incorporators are B. L. Doherty and Norman Bridge of Los Angeles; B. W. Morehead of San Francisco; L. P. St. Clair of Bakersfield; and W. L. Stewart, J. S. Torrance, L. W. Andrews, C. A. Canfield, T. A. O'Donnell, J. M. Danziger and Chas. Wellborn of Los Angeles.

POLITICAL.

It is whispered that I. E. Marshall, the genial and efficient city assessor and tax collector, may be forced into the race for the office of County Assessor. These rumors do not come from Mr. Marshall, but from his friends, so it appears that the office is hunting the man.

HENRY JONES RETIRES.

The friends of Hon. Henry T. Jones were surprised to hear that his bondsmen withdrew very suddenly, whose intention was to retire from office after the end of his present term. His bondsmen having retired, Mr. Jones did not care enough for the office to secure new bondsmen which he could very easily have done, but he let his place go by default, until the office was declared vacant by the board of supervisors by regular course of law. When it came to the appointment of his successor, at Mr. Jones' request, his faithful deputy in his office for many years, Hon. Geo. Meese, Chairman of the Republican County Central Committee, was appointed to fill the vacancy and the name of Mr. Jones was on the petition.

Great care was taken by the sureties of Assessor Jones not to make any charges against him, for they well knew that Mr. Jones' accounts were all straight. His record was clear, but some one wanted to get even in politics, and the newspaper with a sore head tried to knock the official, not having sucked the public teat of that office, it having been milked dry by others. After having served in office many years the late assessor was glad to be free.

HON. EDW. HYATT.

Hon. Edward Hyatt, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, a Republican with strong Rooseveltian policies on the conservation of natural resources, is a candidate for the re-nomination for the second term of the office of California's chief school executive.

Mr. Hyatt has more ably filled the office than any other state school officer who preceded him, both by expert knowledge of educational affairs, but has a large ample reserve of ripe educational experience of the practical, modern type to draw upon, and the correlation of cortical impulses of California's educational grey matter into practical phases for the future welfare of California's school children, reduced to the practical walks of life, is no easy task indeed, and Mr. Hyatt has a national reputation in school affairs and school progress.

Mr. Hyatt is not a hobby rider; nor is he a "faddist." He does not favor the polite requests upon parents to buy John or Jane an extra Hon. Edw. Hyatt set of pencils, book, or whatnot; he says to buy them out of the school fund; in examinations for promotion he says: "Ask a few questions orally and dismiss the school for a picnic; the out-door is better for the child than the long NERVOUS STRAIN of the written examination technique;" and to carry forward the out-door idea, Mr. Hyatt is a strong support to the California Woman's clubs in their playground ideas for children, and he would bring the wilds of nature as near the school room as possible to enlarge the horizon of the child's inner experience from the wholesome sensory impressions of the wilds of Mother Nature. The text-books have been simplified and cheapened under the Hyatt administration of California school affairs; his booklets on "The Conservation of Natural Resources;" "School Architecture" in which Richmond Union District high school building was shown, and the work on "Arbor Day Exercises" with bulletins of State Educational Progress show that the name Hyatt is synonymous with practical economy in the education of, and turning out of the public schools, practical, independent, healthy children to work out their careers of human destiny. Mr. Hyatt is sure to be selected for a second term, despite the efforts of a certain country politician who "sorter hankers arter the offs." With the exception of Friend W. Richardson for State Printer and A. B. Nye for Comptroller, Hon. Edward Hyatt can chop, saw and split more wood and can maul more rails than any other mentioned on the Lincoln-Roosevelt ticket. The Catholics of Richmond are planning a grand benefit entertainment with the best of talent.

The Social Whirl

A few Chats about the Smart Set

The Woman's Improvement club is planning some good events.

Mrs. M. Guidi, Mrs. J. Matteri and Mrs. N. Turato have all their arrangements completed for the Druids' ball tonight.

Acantha Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, met last night and planned for the reception of the grand officers, Friday evening, April 22.

Halley Comet, Esq., has arrived from the east, to visit Richmond for a few weeks. Mr. Comet says he notes many changes in our city since his last visit in 1835.

Miss Sibyl Marston successfully demonstrated aluminumware in the art of cookery, before the West Side Woman's Improvement Club last Tuesday.

The Misses Fillmore, daughters of the late J. A. Fillmore of the Southern Pacific, were foreweek guests of Superintendent and Mrs. C. Berndt at Winehaven.

Some uneasiness (?) was felt that D. H. Bayly, wharfinger at Point San Pablo would not be released in time to connect with the Belt Line train, but he flew via aeroplane.

Tired of making his own fritters, E. W. Callnon, of the well known firm of Callnon & Winfree on Macdonald avenue, has surprised his friends by his return from Hopkinsville, Ky., with his bride, who was Mrs. M. A. Mason, until the wedding of the "Old Kentucky Home" on March 24. Mr. Callnon could throw a flap-jack into the air and turn it easily, but drew the line on fritters. The Terminal wishes Mr. and Mrs. Callnon a happy life.

Onetah Tribe, Improved Order of Red Men, have a grand adoption of Pale Faces, a class of twenty-five, at the wigwam on Macdonald Trail tonight. Corn, venison and pine nuts. Hold on to your scalp.

Construction on the First National Bank Building at the corner of Macdonald Avenue and Sixth Street, will start at once. When completed the structure will cost $50,000—the best in Richmond.

This week at their beautiful bungalow at Winehaven, Superintendent and Mrs. C. Berndt were popular host and hostess to a few of their friends in which genuine hospitality was blended with sparkling friendship. All enjoyed tea and the decorations. There were present Mr. and Mrs. F. Litticken of San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Parsons and Mr. Parsons' cousin, Miss Virginia Carter of Berkeley and Mrs. Warren Brown and daughter Miss Eleanor Lorraine, were all present at the german and all report an enjoyable time. Superintendent is the most popular official of the California Wine Association at Winehaven, and Mr. Parsons is assistant manager of the Westinghaus Electric Co. of San Francisco.

City of Richmond.
The terminal challenges any place in the world to show as great railroad development in nine years.

Trains leave Richmond from the Macdonald Avenue depots as follows:

Southern Pacific

The subway, at the main Richmond depot on Macdonald Avenue, at a cost of $55,000, a permanent mechanism, built in 1909, fixes for all time the central commercial traffic way.

The next improvement will be a modern, enlarged mission style depot for the AVENUE and a local electrified road, an extension north from Berkeley to the depot, looping the loop via West Berkeley to San Francisco, with a 20-cent fare.

Toward San Francisco:

Southern Pacific is building track for electric service to Macdonald Avenue depot

Santa Fe

This road came to Richmond in 1900, before the Standard Oil refinery, expanding for wharves at Ferry Point, tunnel, viaducts, depots, round-houses, shops, library, warehouses and Terminal tracks about $1,700,000. Like the Southern Pacific, the Santa Fe's main depot is on Macdonald Avenue and it will be of the mission style when moved near First Street, and enlarged.

The Oakland & East Side Railway, the northern terminus of the coast division, is here and will use gasoline motive power to connect for San Francisco through the Key Route.

No. 5 Chicago Overland	9:50 p.m.
No. 4 Chicago Limited	10:55 p.m.

All main line trains except Nos. 7 and 8 stop at Richmond Avenue and 5 minutes to the time schedule of Macdonald Avenue depot for trains to the ferry and subtract 5 minutes for time of travel from the ferry.

This time table is subject to change without notice.

The Santa Fe has in contemplation a few changes on the main line and ferry service.

—Electric cars. Local service.—

This is the best city electric railway system in the world in a city nine years old. Fare from County Line to Macdonald Ave. and Twentieth St. Richmond, only 5c to Point Richmond, 10c. This is building up the Avenue. Electric cars also stop at the Ferry. Ten-minute car service is in force from Twenty-Third Street on the Ave to Washington Ave. Pt. Richmond

RICHMOND BELT RAILWAY

The Belt Line connects Richmond with the commerce of the world through the oceanic and inland shipping with Richmond as a distributing center via great overland railroads, the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe, which, by traffic arrangements, control the Belt and its wharves, each assuming separate management every alternate year. The largest vessels at discharge and take on cargo, and meet the Terminal overland railroads, here at deeper water than at San Francisco. The Belt Line also carries factory, warehouse, wharf and other employes, twice daily, via East Shore & Suburban electric cars to and from their homes in Richmond.

IN MEMORIAM.

WILLIAM C. CARTER.

William C. Carter, beloved husband of Mary L. Carter, father of Albert W. and Elmore E. Carter and brother of Mrs. Adolph Vollmer of Alameda; Robert D. Carter of San Diego; Randolph C. Carter of Nevada City; Albert C. Carter of North Bloomfield; Henry Jefferson Carter and Mrs. Jessie Brandler of Pennsylvania—a native of Louisiana, passed away April 6th, in this city, aged 58 years, 6 mos. and 7 days.

William Carter, left many warm friends at Richmond and among old miners. He was a close friend of a cousin of the Terminal editor, Dr. Stephen M. Harris, who for many years was the honored Mayor of Grass Valley. He was an honored member of Point Richmond Aerie of Eagles and that fraternity conveyed its honored deceased and late brother to the last resting place in Sunset View cemetery, where "the sunset changes the ocean's blue to gold." The funeral was held yesterday from Smallwood's undertaking parlors.

The sympathy of the Terminal goes to the bereaved.

Dear Sir: Confirming my reply to your telegram of even date, I beg to say that we that we expect to begin work on our Richmond plant between the first and fifteenth of April.

As you can probably appreciate, it is no small matter to make the plans for a shop of this kind and necessarily the plan is discussed and changes made by our engineers and shop managers. We are going ahead with this just as fast as is consistent with good business practice. As soon as the details are complete it will not take long to complete the work.—Yours very truly,

UNCLE FRITZ TALKS

Uncle Fritz advises the planting of roses as a rich decoration for all lawns under your acacias. Carnations, callas, violets should not be overlooked, and the Virginia creeper and smilax is a splendid porch decoration.

Fritz says there is no better impression for your eastern friends, than a properly landscaped lawn and this season is a very favorable one for planting; the most humble home, and the yard of the poor can be made like a castle garden by a few strokes of the gardener's art assisting nature. Erect your arbor and swings for your children; have the play-ground park, flowers and fountain with gold fish in your own yard; and enjoy your home retreat.

Uncle Fritz will arrange your own park and home playground.
